Overview

Tatianna Brannen is a construction litigation attorney based in Dallas. Her practice focuses on representing owners, general contractors, subcontractors, developers, and suppliers in construction litigation, complex commercial disputes, and arbitration proceedings.

Tatianna has experience managing matters from inception through trial and arbitration, including pleadings, discovery, depositions, motion practice, mediations, appellate briefing, and post-trial motions. She has represented clients in disputes involving breach of contract, fraud, construction defects and delays, breach of fiduciary duty, tortious interference, real estate issues, and insurance coverage claims.

Clients rely on Tatianna for practical, detail-oriented advocacy in high-stakes matters. She has served as a primary attorney and client point of contact on active disputes, taken and defended party and expert depositions, worked closely with defect, delay, and damages experts, argued dispositive motions, and helped secure early case resolutions through favorable rulings on the pleadings.

Tatianna also drafts and negotiates construction agreements and related project documentation, bringing a litigation-informed perspective to risk allocation and dispute avoidance.

Her background includes work on multi-party construction disputes exceeding $100 million, AAA arbitrations involving construction defects, scope disputes, and delay damages, and complex commercial and real estate litigation in state and federal courts.
